

San Francisco Chronicle

'THE WORLD HAS CHANGED'

THE INAUGURATION OF BARACK OBAMA

DOUG MILLS / New York Times

President Obama and wife Michelle step out of their limo for a brief walk of joy in the inaugural parade along Pennsylvania Avenue, heading toward the White House for the first time as the first couple.

A STEP INTO HISTORY: THROGS WITNESS INAUGURATION OF NATION'S 44TH PRESIDENT

Complete coverage of the inauguration of Barack Hussein Obama, the first African American president of the United States, and the day of celebrations. A4-A18

'ALL OVER COFFEE' ARTIST OFFERS A PERSONAL VIEW OF THE CELEBRATION IN WASHINGTON

The Chronicle's Paul Madonna visits Washington and sketches his impressions of the festivities. Datebook, C1

FATIGUE BLAMED FOR KENNEDY'S SEIZURE

Sen. Ted Kennedy, who had surgery for brain cancer last June, suffers a seizure during a luncheon in Washington in honor of President Obama. But doctors say the Massachusetts Democrat is feeling better and is likely to be released today. A19

WEATHER
Chance of rain.
Highs to 63.
Lows to 38. C8
Index is on Page A2

